

CRETACEOUS CUPCAKE CRAFT

Dino-mite shapes made from cupcake liners!

MATERIALS

- Cupcake liners (blue, green)
- Black and orange permanent marker
- White circle stickers
- Googly eyes
- Hot glue gun
- Scissors
- Pencil

INSTRUCTIONS

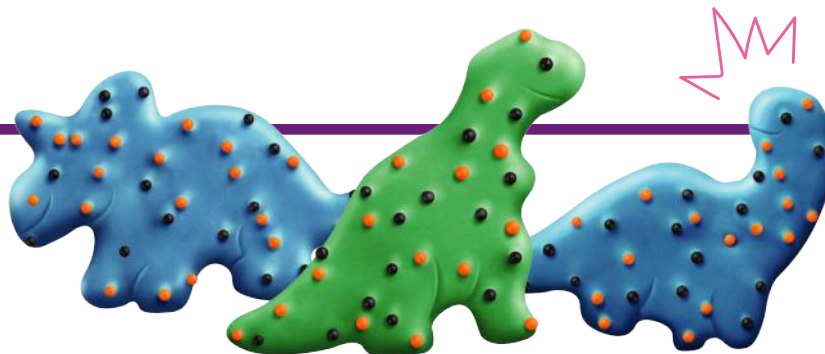

Brachiosaurus

1. Flatten and fold your cupcake liner in half, then glue the halves together to secure it. This will be the body.
2. With another cupcake liner, freehand draw an outline of the head and neck piece (see image below). Then cut it out.

3. With scrap pieces of liner, freehand draw two legs pieces and a tail piece. Then cut them out.
4. Glue the head and neck piece, leg pieces, and tail piece onto the main body of the Brachiosaurus. Then glue on a googly eye onto the head.
5. Color in the white circle stickers with the black and orange permanent marker to create sprinkles.
6. Decorate the dinosaur with the black and orange stickers.

INSTRUCTIONS

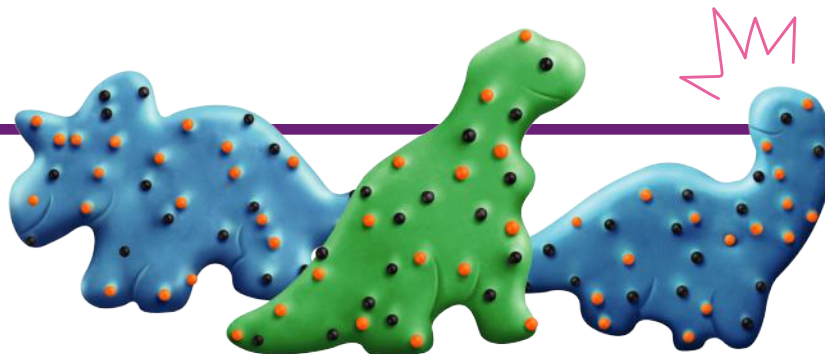

Pteranodon

1. Flatten the cupcake liner and cut out a circle from the center of it. This will be the body.
2. With the leftover scrap piece left of the perimeter of the liner (the accordion-like edges), cut it in half to create two sets of wings (see image below).

3. With another liner, freehand draw a head and neck piece, and two legs pieces. Then cut them out.
4. Glue the head and neck piece and leg pieces onto the main body of the Pteranodon. Then glue on a googly eye onto the head.
5. Color in the white circle stickers with the black and orange permanent marker to create sprinkles.
6. Decorate the dinosaur with the black and orange stickers.
